Children Awaiting Parents, Inc. (CAP) is a Rochester-based national nonprofit organization that recruits foster and adoptive families for special needs children who have been waiting the longest for a “forever” family. We have brought together more than 6,000 children and families in our 38 years of service.

“We cannot allow the government to raise our children and expect them to be productive citizens. Children grow better in families, not institutions, and without the foundation and resources that a family can offer, we are setting our children up for failure. Our Children, Our Community, Our Responsibility.”

Veronica Black, Adoptive Mother Community Outreach Specialist for Children Awaiting Parents

CAP continues its efforts to raise adoption awareness, recruit families, advocate for system changes and increase the chances that waiting children will find a loving family.

This little book features 15 of the 120,000 legally free youth who are waiting for a place to call home. We invite you to meet more of them through The CAP Book, or on our website
